

JCB Partners, LLC has been acquired by Perficient, Inc.

St. Charles Capital acted as exclusive financial advisor to JCB Partners in this transaction

JCB Partners is a business and technology consulting firm focused on enterprise performance management, analytics and business intelligence solutions, primarily leveraging the IBM Cognos suite of software products.

Perficient, Inc. is a leading information technology consulting firm serving Global 2000 and other large enterprise customers. Perficient employs more than 1,500 professionals and serves clients from strategic locations across North America and offshore locations in China, Europe and India.

"The addition of JCB further strengthens Perficient's position as one of the leading business intelligence and enterprise performance management consulting firms in the country," said Kathy Henely, Perficient's chief operating officer. "It increases our access to CFO suites, is a great complement to our business consulting offerings and presents a strong opportunity for pull-through of additional development, implementation and integration services."
