Founded in 1948 and headquartered in Omaha, Nebraska, E.A. Pedersen Company, doing business as Pedersen Power Products ("Pedersen"), is a leading original equipment manufacturer of medium voltage, metal-clad switchgear used in indoor and outdoor power distribution applications. Pedersen also manufactures control and relay panels, which provide protection and control for the high voltage apparatus located in an electrical substation, as well as the enclosures that house the metal-clad switchgear and its related components. Pedersen serves municipal and investor-owned utilities, large industrial companies, consulting firms, and engineering and electrical contractors.
